Minnesota Red Bull Soldiers Complete Middle East deployment

KUWAIT - More than 650 Citizen-Soldiers of the Minnesota National Guards 34th Red Bull Infantry Division have departed the Middle East as they return home from a ten-month deployment to the region. Red Bull Soldiers are making a brief stop at Ford Hood, Texas to finish the demobilization process before returning home in the coming days. The Minnesota unit was responsible for leading U.S. Central Command's Task Force Spartan, which increases military readiness and capability, in order to maintain regional stability and partnerships.

The Red Bull Division led several brigades during its tour, including air defense artillery, field artillery, engineers, armor and aviation. Spread-out to locations in nearly 20 countries, the brigades amassed to more than 9,000 service members to support Task Force Spartan in providing capabilities such as aviation, logistics, force protection and information management.

Throughout the deployment, support from families, employers and communities back home never wavered, and the 34th Red Bull Infantry Division successfully accomplished the Task Force Spartan mission. The 34th Red Bull Infantry Division will hold its official Welcome Home Ceremony on August 27th, at the Minnesota State Fair Grounds.

The Rosemount, Minnesota-based 34th Red Bull Infantry Division provides training and readiness oversight for ten National Guard brigades with a total of more than 23,000 Soldiers across Minnesota and eight other states.
